

JACKSON FEUD IS KEPT UP

Hotel Where Witnesses
Were Kept Is Burned to the Ground Sunday Morning.

TWO MEN KILLED

Were Brought Into Court Today to Answer to Charge of Being Incendiaries.

Jackson, Ky., June 16.—Edward Thorp and Joe Crawford, suspected of setting fire to Ewans' hotel, were taken into court this morning and after evidence had been taken in a habeas corpus proceeding they were held under bonds to the grand jury.

What They Did
The incendiaries' torch has re-kindled the fire in Beathitt county, said correspondent this morning, and riots predominate.

The victim in this instance is Capt. B. J. Ewen, who has been marked by the Hargis faction ever since he told what he knew of the murder of Lawyer J. B. Marcum.

Ewen's hotel, occupied by about thirty guests, some of them witnesses in the case against Curtis Jett and Tom White, was burned to the ground early Sunday morning.

The guests all escaped unharmed, but lost most of their property. Capt. Ewen was not in the hotel, as he has been sleeping at the militia camp ever since the Jett trial opened.

Policy Is Canceled.

Once the fire was started the destruction of the hotel was certain, as it was a frame building, and Jackson has no fire department.

The hotel and furniture had been insured, but a week ago Capt. Ewen was notified that on account of threatening conditions, the company had decided to cancel his policy. The house and fixtures were valued at $10,000. They were the savings of a life time and Ewen and family are homeless and penniless.

Two Under Arrest.

Gray, and Jim Haddicks, and Jerry Luntz, workmen at the Swan & Day lumber yard, reported having seen Joe Crawford and Ed Thorp, wagoners for the Hargis Bros., come across the bridge and return just before the blaze was discovered, and Maj. Allen ordered these men arrested. They were taken into the military camp by the soldiers and manacled in the guard-house.

It was discovered immediately after the fire that all the water barrels around the place had been upset so that the early blaze could not be extinguished before it was well started.

It is also declared that two cloth balls dipped in tar and saturated with kerosene were found near the ruins of the hotel.

Habeas Corpus Writs.

The Hargis people immediately took steps to secure writs of habeas corpus before Judge Redwine, making them returnable at once. The writs were served on Maj. Allen, and he sent the prisoners to the courthouse under a strong guard.

The attorneys immediately argued the case before Judge Redwine. Two of the most interested spectators were County Judge Hargis and Sheriff Ed Callahan. Judge Redwine finally decided to admit the men to bail in $3,000 each. County Judge Hargis and Sheriff Callahan had bonds drawn up, but after a consultation between them and the lawyers they refused to sign the bonds, and the two men were taken by the soldiers inside their lines and are in the military guard-house.

Man in Woman's Attire.

It was only a few days ago that two persons, supposedly women, applied for rooms in the hotel, but were refused admission when it was learned that one was a man in disguise.

The burning of the hotel is not only considered as incendiary but also as accessory to other facts of intimidation in connection with the trial of those accused of the murder of Marcum. It has been openly predicted that there would be the flashing of incendiary warnings, that arson would go along with assassination. The burning of Ewen's property has caused renewed fear for both life and property, and also has increased the general doubt of conviction in either of the pending cases.

Danger at El Paso.

El Paso, Tex., June 15.—The flood condition is regarded as serious here by even the most conservative persons. The river continues to rise, and the water is striking the levee with great force. All available policemen have been placed on duty along the river, and the city engineer and street commissioner have been busy with a large number of workmen engaged in fortifying weak spots in the levee with sand bags. Below the city the river tore through all obstructions, and entered its old channel which was abandoned when the cut-off was built three years ago to strengthen the stream to guard against future overflow.

RIVER RECEDES AT ST. LOUIS

East St. Louis Lowlands Are Resuming Their Normal Aspect This Morning.

St. Louis, Mo., June 15.—The river is receding slowly.

Conditions in East St. Louis are improving, the flooded portions south of Broadway and west of the Southern railroad tracks showing a decided fall in the water that since the break in the levee Wednesday morning has covered this territory. It is expected that many of those driven out of this territory will be able to get back to their homes and places of business as early as Tuesday. The lowlands back of the city are beginning to resume, in places, their usual aspect. The water around the relay station is receding and it will be but a short time before the railroads can again enter St. Louis across the Eads bridge.

Seek the Missing.

A number of persons who lived in Madison, Venice, Granite City and East St. Louis prior to the flood are missing. Inquiries for twenty-seven missing ones have been received at the different relief headquarters.

The inquest into the death of Clifford Rambley, the young member of the St. Louis naval reserves who was killed in East St. Louis by alleged levee cutters, was begun by the coroner at Belleville.

J. S. Bratton, the horseman, near whose property the fight took place, was brought from Belleville to East St. Louis to attend the inquest. A number of witnesses were examined, but no positive evidence as to who fired the fatal shot was adduced. Bratton was taken back to Belleville and locked up, pending action by the coroner who will continue the inquest.

STATE NOTES

The crop outlook in Waupaca county is said to be above the average at this time of the year. Small grain is especially promising.

The dry goods store of Ingola Bros., The Fair, at Appleton, was burglarized Saturday night. The booty was small.

The marriage of Miss Caroline Bradford and Charles Tyndal of Bristol, who tried to elope to Chicago, was temporarily stopped by the girl's mother.

B. S. Fox, the new commander of the Sons of Veterans, is a dealer in farm machinery at Meehan station, near Stevens Point.

The entire business portion of the town of Hustler, a village five miles west of New Lisbon, was almost totally destroyed by fire this morning.

Fifteen workmen employed at the Lakeside shops at Racine became involved in a riot over union matters last night. Several were injured.

W. A. Wise, mayor of Reedburg, was elected president of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, which met at Oshkosh last Friday.

Seventy Milwaukee business men left the city by special train this morning on the third excursion of the association. Asst. Gen. Passenger Agent J. L. Ferguson is in charge of the train.

The good old mental training of the New England college, where Greek, Latin and mathematics took the students' time received an eloquent tribute today in the address of President Birge before the graduating class at Madison.

Dr. C. H. Hoffman of the University of Iowa faculty, who resigned because he refused to give his true name to the faculty, denies the story that he is the Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria, who was supposed to have committed suicide.

HUNDREDS IN PERIL ON LAKE

Excursionists Are Drenched During a Squall at Pewaukee.

Pewaukee, Wis., June 15.—Hundreds of excursionists from Milwaukee narrowly escaped drowning during a sudden squall on Lake Pewaukee. The lake was dotted with steamers and sailing craft when a furious wind and rain storm came up. The waves became high and the pleasure craft pitched and tossed helplessly despite all the crews could do. Few of the vessels had any covering and hundreds of passengers were drenched by the heavy rain, in addition to being momentarily in danger of being blown from the decks into the lake. Many thrilling experiences were related by passengers when they reached shore after the storm.

SUFFERS FROM RARE DISEASE

Myelitis Deadens the Muscles of a Young Patient.

New York, June 15.—Pauline Burkhardt, aged 16, has been found by the authorities of St. Luke's hospital to be the victim of one of the rarest diseases, myelitis. It is a form of paralysis and in two weeks has deadened every muscle in the girl's body below the hips. The girl never had been ill until this disease attacked her. The disease is caused by inflammation of the spinal marrow.

MINE WORKERS IN CONVENTION

Have Many Important Questions Regarding Industrial World to Be Settled.

APPOINT A BOARD

Will Discuss Situation As To a Conciliatory Board
Being Appointed

(Special by Scripps-Mellae.)

Scranton, Pa., June 16.—The most important convention of mine workers since that which tied up the entire anthracite coal district a year ago is now in session here today to discuss a number of grave questions which have arisen.

Industrial Peace.

There are any number of questions to be decided upon which closely touch the industrial peace of the world. The most important matter to decide is the appointment of a conciliatory board of arbitration for the miners.

Refused Recognition.

The former board appointed some time ago has been refused recognition by the operators. This, the miners claim, is in direct violation of the agreement made with them when the strike was settled.

WILL SAVE MILLIONS FOR COPPER REFINERS

Cornell Students Discover Method
That Is Expected to Revolutionize the Industry.

Ithaca, N. Y., June 15.—Isaac Baum of Uniontown, Pa., and Florence Joseph Schwab of New Orleans, students in the engineering department at Cornell, have made discoveries that they expect will revolutionize the copper refining industry. They explain their discoveries in a thesis on which they collaborated. Baum and Schwab received a mark of 98 per cent on their treatise, the highest in the history of Cornell.

For some time these young men have been experimenting day and night. In their thesis they describe a process for refining copper which professors here say will stand any test and will save copper refiners millions of dollars annually. They demonstrate that the temperature at which copper is now refined and the current which is passed through the refining vats are not high enough. By using the temperature and the current density which these inventors have calculated the original cost of a refinery will be reduced more than one-half.

"All that I will say at present," declared Baum, "is that I believe all the refiners in this country will soon use our method."

Professor Wilder D. Bancroft, under whose supervision Baum and Schwab have been working, will translate the thesis into German and it will be read before the Electro-Chemical society of Berlin. At this meeting the details of discovery will be explained in full.

About $80,000,000 worth of copper is refined in this country annually and $12,000,000 worth of silver and $4,000,000 worth of gold are recovered therefrom. The present cost of refining is $5 a ton.

MODERN WOODMEN ARE IN INDIANA

Are in Session at Indianapolis and
Will Settle Many Important Questions.

(Special by Scripps-Mellae.)

Indianapolis, Ind., June 16.—The biennial session of the head camp of the Modern Woodmen began here today and will continue until Saturday. Delegates from thirty-three states are present.

UNION MEN ARE RESTRAINED

Court at Shelbyville, Ind., Issues an Injunction Against Violence.

Shelbyville, Ind., June 15.—Douglas Morris, circuit judge, issued a temporary restraining order against twenty members of the labor unions of this city on the complaint of Charles E. Karmire of the Shelbyville desk factory restraining them from going upon the premises, doing injury to the property or in any way interfering with the employees. The order also restrains them from preventing employees from working for plaintiff by force, violence or threats, or from molesting employees while going to or from the factory.

Language for Busy People.

Several examples of the busy man's language have lately been overheard. "How is your wife?" inquired a man. "She's influencing I am afraid," was the laconic reply. This economy of words seems only so far to be applied to various maladies; but later, no doubt, such expressions as "We're tired last night" and "I tailored this morning" will become common enough.—The Tatler.

SITUATION IS MUCH BETTER

Hotels Manage to Serve their Guests and Many Strikers Return to Work.

GOMPERS ARRIVES

Offers His Aid as Peacemaker
—It May Not Be Accepted
By Hotel Men.

(Special by Scripps-Mellae.)

Chicago, Ill., June 16.—The strike situation in the big hotels today shows a decided improvement. In many of the large hostleries the strikers have returned to work in small numbers and with extra work meals are being served.

Offers His Aid

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, arrived in Chicago today and will offer his services to both sides to settle the questions raised. It is not probable that they will be accepted by the hotel men.

Stand Firm

Thus far the hotel men have stood firm and with the help of some of their guests have managed to serve meals on time and with good results; they are still looking for outside aid to break the strike.

PRINCE MAY DECLINE TO BE SERBIA'S KING

Peter Is Said to Be Averse to Accepting Crown From Assassins' Hands.

Belgrade, June 15.—The conference of senators and deputies resolved unanimously that the constitution of 1888 should be put in force, and that Prince Peter Karageorgewitch should be elected king at the joint session of the senate and skupshtina.

It is not certain that Karageorgewitch will accept the crown. The most sensational rumors have been received from Geneva. One is to the effect that the prince demands that before he enters Belgrade all officers concerned in the murders shall have left it, requires an increase in his civil list, and insists that his election must be unanimous.

An alleged interview with the prince at Geneva has created great excitement here. He is quoted as saying: "A king who could receive a crown from the hands of assassins would be their accomplice."

Asked if he would punish the assassins, the prince is reported to have replied:

"I have no power." The question, "But when you are king?" Prince Peter gave the answer: "That may never be."

Many think that the election of Prince Karageorgewitch is by no means certain. There is a strong feeling in many quarters in favor of choosing a Danish or other European prince.

Forty Are Killed

Berlin, June 16.—A large flat building in Warsaw collapsed this morning and it is known that forty persons lost their lives in the falling walls.

ENGLAND DOES NOT TALK OF SERBIA

Neither the Cabinet or the Foreign Office Have Taken Any Steps as Yet.

London, June 16.—Premier Balfour in replying to a question in Commons today said that the Serbian question had not been under consideration by the foreign office or the cabinet thus far.

SHIPS FLEE FROM WATERSPOUT

Ocean Vessels Scud Away From Track of a Threatening Column.

New York, June 15.—A big waterspout appeared off the Jersey coast near Asbury Park. Passing up the shore at the rate of about six miles an hour, it disappeared in the direction of Long Island. The spout was formed like an hour glass and its base was surrounded by a circular of foam. Two schooners sailing southward hastily changed their courses and put out to sea. Those who saw the spout gave varying estimates as to its height, but all agreed that it reached up to a heavy black cloud, which seemed to pass northward with it.

Will Not Be Premier.

Rome, June 16.—Sig. Zanardelli, the retiring premier, has refused to attempt the formation of a new cabinet because of the condition of his health.

World's Increase in Wealth.

In the last decade the increase in wealth was one-seventh greater than the increase in population.

KANSAS CITY NOW WANTS FOR AID

Many Hundreds are out of Work and Thousands Live on Charity.

Kansas City, Mo., June 15.—The relief committee of Kansas City, Kas., has given out the following:

"In connection with relief for the flood sufferers in Kansas City, Kas., it is very important that the people of the United States should understand that there are two Kansas Cities—Kansas City in Missouri, with about 280,000 people, and Kansas City in Kansas, with over 60,000 people, adjoining the former city on the west, and separated from it by the state line; that each city has a separate organization for the relief of its flood sufferers, and that in Kansas City, Kas., an area including 23,000 people by the state census of March, 1903, has been swept by a rushing flood of from ten to thirty feet in depth, which has swept away over one-third of the houses in this district, has almost ruined another third, and that in the entire district the merchandise, household goods and clothing have been either washed away or almost totally ruined by a ten days' submersion and a deposit in all buildings of from two to four feet of mud.

"With the falling of the water employment to a large number has been given, and the condition thereby much improved. There remain, however, many thousands dependent on charity for shelter, food, clothing, and the most meager outfit of cooking utensils and furniture. These cannot be supplied without outside aid, and unless it is furnished to a large amount the most dire suffering and widespread sickness and death must result. No more worthy or urgent cause can be presented than that of the flood sufferers of Kansas City, Kas., and we appeal to the generous people of the country to aid in supplying these pressing needs of our stricken people. Money and supplies should be sent to T. B. Gilbert, mayor of Kansas City, Kas.

SPARKS FROM THE WIRES

W. L. Bush of Chicago has planned to build a temple of music at Kansas City.

Fifty-one Chicago couples have married at St. Joseph, Mich., in the last four weeks.

It is said that the internal revenue authorities will be asked to prosecute the meat combine for alleged violations of the oleo law at New York.

New York craft and the passengers extended a royal welcome to the Lip-ton fleet, which arrived in port after a remarkable voyage without accident.

Two persons were burned to death and six others injured as a result of a kerosene explosion due to a Milwaukee girl's attempt to start a fire in a store.

The City hotel at Jackson, Ky., owned by Captain B. J. Ewen, the principal witness in the feud murder case, was destroyed by a supposed incendiary fire.

Yale students have discovered a radioactivity in the water taken from a deep well and in surface water. Baccalaureate addresses were delivered at the University of Michigan by Dr. Angell and at the University of Wisconsin by acting President Birge.

Bandits in the province of Cobu, R. I., have raided several towns and the government is planning a campaign of suppression.

The death of many babies has been charged by Dr. C. A. Lindsey of Connecticut health board to the mother's refusal to nurse them; no natural substitute has ever been found during the child's first year. The notorious Five Points of New York is fast disappearing; the hovels are being torn down and a space cleared for a park to connect Paradise park and Mulberry Bend.

HELPS ENFORCE SUNDAY LAW

Union Patrols Indianapolis to Prevent Retailers From Selling Goods.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 15.—The Retail Clerks' union had men out watching retail stores, groceries, meat markets and such places to see that no goods were sold in violation of the Sunday closing law. Five committees of three men each patrolled the city to arrest any man caught selling goods. The union has been at work on this for about six Sundays. C. J. Papenbrock, president of the union, said he was well satisfied with the results obtained so far.

PRINCE CHOSEN AS THE KING

Peter Karageorgewitch Is Unanimously Elected
King of Serbia by the Skupshtina.

HONOR ASSASSINS

Vote of Thanks Is Passed On Their Killing Alexander and Queen Draga.

Belgrade June 16.—The Skupshtina opened at noon today. One of the first acts of that body was to pass a vote of thanks to the officers who rid the country of the late King Alexander and Queen Draga.

Chose the Prince

The next work was the election by a unanimous vote of Peter Karageorgewitch as king. This was merely formally sanctioning the choice of the army made on Thursday last after Alexander's murder.

Packed With Troops

The city was packed from top to bottom with troops all armed and ready to meet any emergency. It was the will of the army Peter be chosen and the council had nothing else to do but follow it.

No Rewards

No rewards will be offered for the regicides and the names of the officers who participated in the murder will not be published. Peter was officially notified today of his selection as king.

RECEIVES CABLE FROM BELGRADE

John Gollmar Hears From Friends In His Native Land Who Bid Him Hope.

Two words in the Servian tongue were the entire message of a cablegram received yesterday which gives John Gollmar, foreign correspondent for the Parker Pen Co., reason to hope that he may recover the property of which he was deprived when he was exiled from his native land, because he had incurred the enmity of the late Queen Draga.

The first words, when translated, means "you may hope;" the second, "we will work."

This is the reply to a message which Gollmar sent to friends in Serbia, asking that they attempt to secure his return.

Gollmar does not wish to return to Serbia to live. He much prefers America. But when he was exiled he lost a house and property to about 40,000 francs, which were confiscated by the government, and he hopes to come into possession of the fortune which he lost through too free use of his pen.

ASSURES DOLLAR WHEAT TO RAISERS OF CROPS

Farmers' Trust Claims to Have 100, 000 Members and Expects to Enroll 1,000,000.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 16.—The farmers' trust held a large and enthusiastic meeting here. A membership of over 100,000 is claimed and it reaches into every state. By September the president claims there will be 1,000,000 members. Wheat must not be sold by members for less than $1. The idea of the promoters is that when the grain dealers find that the society is in earnest about the matter and will not sell their grain at less than the minimum price they will hasten to pay that price for fear that the price may go much higher. There is no restriction on the members as to how high they may sell their crops. They hope to hold enough wheat on the market by fall so that prices will boom.

ALMOST LYNCH A MURDERER

Police Rescue Man From Mob as He Is About to Be Hanged.

Bucyrus, O., June 15.—Beaten by a mob and nearly lynched, Frank Dilling of Crestline was saved by the police. Dilling had murdered George Cook at Crestline, and was at once mobbed. While a rope was being secured with which to hang him the police rescued him. He was thrown into a carriage and the horses lashed into a gallop, while the mob was held back by revolvers. Dilling was intoxicated and fired into a crowd, shooting Cook in the back.

LOSS REACHES INTO MILLIONS

Great Damage Reported From Floods
Throughout France.

St. Etienne, France, June 15.—Violent rainstorms have flooded many mines in this region, compelling a suspension of work. Washouts have also interrupted railway traffic. The rivers Colse, Mare and Glen are in flood, while the Lorie is ten feet above its usual level at Balbigny. The damage caused by inundation is already estimated at millions of francs.

CHILDRENS' DAY AT CHURCHES

FIVE CHURCHES HAVE SPECIAL SERVICES FOR CHILDREN.

SPECIAL SERVICES WERE HELD

Little Ones Were Baptized; Some Promoted, and Pastors Preached Appropriate Sermons.

Five of the churches, the Presbyterian, Baptist, Congregational, and two Methodist churches, on Sunday, held special services for children. In all of the five churches the services were especially designed for the children and for the teaching of the younger members of the congregation the real meaning of church-going. Special exercises especially adapted to the children and the part they are to play in the church life in the future, together with baptisms and dedications of infants were held in all of the churches.

Presbyterian Church
At the Presbyterian church, Rev. Anderson, pastor, the services began at ten o'clock. The feature of this service was the graduating exercises of the primary class into the regular Sunday school. The little ones repeated the ten commandments, the 23rd Psalm, the Beatitudes and the creed. This class was composed of the following pupils: Rachel Head, Wilma Sovell, Bertha Jones, Pearl Marsden, Alice Powers, Donald Korst, Lawrence Evans, Frank Hazen, Charles Essner, Pearl Brunson, Steve Gardner. Rev. Henderson then gave a short address to the children and congregation, and Mrs. Rexford sang a solo. In the evening there was a special musical program in which Mrs. Rexford sang another solo, the boys' choir, the Christian Endeavor quartette and class songs were a part. The church was very prettily decorated for both services.

Baptist Church
At the Baptist church twelve little ones were dedicated to the church at the morning service and six were baptized in the evening. The morning service was entirely for the children and the program was as follows:

Organ Prelude; Hymn; Responsive Reading; Prayer; "Just a Little Sunshine," Sunbeam Chorus; Dedication of Children; Song, the Quartette; Offering; Anthem, the Quartette; Recitation, Roger Cunningham; Solo—Listen to His Voice, Bessie Crossman; "We Bring Our Gifts to Jesus," Miss Mary Granger's Class; "Baby's Nap," Florence Crissey; "My Jolly Neighbor," Bradley Conrad; Anthem, the Quartette; Address—"Church Going," R. M. Vaughan; Duet—"Ye Roses Fair," Bessie Granger and Marguerite Palmer; Recitation, Buel Slocum; "The Man of Tomorrow," Judge B. F. Munwiddle's Class; Solo—"I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say," Lizzie Booth; Graduating Exercises of the Primary Department; Hymn; Benediction.

First Methodist
At the First Methodist church, Rev. Warner, the pastor, preached at the morning service. He took for his text, "The Problem of the Child" and gave a most interesting discourse. There was also baptismal service both for children and adults. At twelve Sunday school was held.

The evening service the following program was carried out: Recitation, Charlie Noyes; recitation, Iva Wise; song, Florence Bagley; recitation, Harold Hall; class exercise, Elva Crawford's class; recitation, Milna Jones; recitation, Roy Wells; song, Dora DeJesse; chorus, Junior choir; recitation, Grace Wilson; recitation, Winifred Granger; recitation, Phillip Kirk; orchestra; class exercise, six little ones; song, Hattie DeJesse; recitation, Francis Granger; recitation, MacArcher's class; exercise Miss McChesney's class; male quartette; chorus, Juniors; Benediction.

Congregational Church
At the Congregational church the services were strictly for the children. A large class was baptized and five young ladies were presented with Bibles. Those baptized were: Mabel Elizabeth Anna Dixon, Bertha Elizabeth Ann Saxby, Ethel Pooley Pond, Earl Edwin Newman, Kenneth Solomon Spoon, Joseph Raymond Thompson, Frederick Guernsey Van de Water, Marguerite Balues, Jean Elizabeth McNamara, Willard William Brunson, Harriet Harold Clark Buehl, Daniel Lee Craig, Lloyd Brigham Craig, Walter Scott Craig.

The six who received Bibles were: Gladys M. Echlin, Hazel F. Myhr, Margaret H. Jeffris, Marguerite E. Thorne, Ethel E. Pond.

The following 1st graduates from the primary grade: Josie Wolbrecht, Mable Hutton, George Swanson, Elsie Swanson, Anna Mae Hughes, Ora Paul, Hildegard Roessler.

The sermon was to the children on the subject "The Books of God." Christ taught in a school in which there were no books such as we have now. His books were the flowers, fields and birds. From the lily he taught the lesson of our being content to be what God means us to be. From the house he taught the necessity of having good foundation principles to life. From the book of money he taught the duty of making the best use of our talents and from the folly of putting things off until it is too late, in Christ's school the copy books and note books were the scholars' own minds and hearts.

CELEBRATION OF FLAG DAY

Woman's Relief Corps Gives a Pleading Program at Y. M. C. A. Hall

Flag day was commemorated in interesting fashion at the Young Men's Christian association auditorium Saturday evening. Under the supervision of the members of the Woman's Relief Corps, and under the auspices of the entire body, an interesting program was carried out.

To Miss Mable Dunwiddle, who is the patriotic instructor of the Woman's Relief Corps, belongs in large part the credit for having carried the anniversary celebration through to so successful an ending. All of the flag drills and numbers in which the children were the principal actors were carried out under her personal guidance.

Girls in Flag Drill
So pleasing was the flag drill, in which seventeen little girls dressed in white participated, that they were called upon to repeat their fascinating evolutions before the close of the evening.

History of Old Glory
Mrs. Jane Dunwiddle presented the history of the flag, from the date when it was first made official. The symbolism of the colors and stripes and stars was explained.

Reportorial Gleanings
Licensed to marry: A marriage license was granted to Lyman Allen of Belvidere and Minnie Gaston of Beloit.

Art League Picnic
The art league picnic is to be held at Burr Springs on Tuesday, June 16. The boat, Clipper, leaves the dock at 10 o'clock to carry passengers.

Repairing Meters
The volt and water meters that were burned out by lightning at the Beloit station of the Interurban railway, during the recent violent thunder storm, were sent to this city for repairs; they have been finished and will soon be re-installed at the station.

Before Justice Earle
The case of Edward M. Remy versus Eric N. Haugen, was decided for the defendant yesterday. The case was tried some time ago and held open for a decision. The case of the Milwaukee Harvester Co. versus Nell Kettle, judgment for the plaintiff for $23.70. The case of the Heddles Lumber Co. versus A. B. Carlson and J. C. Shocker versus Arthur Fern have been settled out of court.

Attention Elks
A lodge of Elks will be installed at Beloit on Tuesday evening, June 16, Madison lodge, No. 410, will do the work. All members of Janesville lodge, No. 254, are requested to be on hand. W. G. Wheeler, Ex. R. B. H. Baldwin, secretary.

Announcement of Nursery Inspection
An expert entomologist, employed by the Experiment station, will in a few days inspect nurseries in accordance with the San Jose Scale law. The cost of inspection, as provided by law, will be five dollars, ($5.00) for each ten acres devoted wholly or in part to nursery stock grown for sale purposes. Nurserymen who have their premises inspected by the above mentioned inspector while on his regular trip will not be required to pay any part of his traveling expenses, but those who delay making application until the inspector has left the state will be charged traveling expenses in addition to the fee required by law.

All nurserymen desiring to have their premises inspected should apply at once to Agricultural Experiment Station, Madison, Wis.
W. A. HENRY, Director.

CHILDREN HAVE SPECIAL SERVICE

COURT STREET M. E. CHURCH HAD SPECIAL EXERCISES.

TIPPETT'S EXCELLENT SERMON

He Talked in a Most Interesting Manner to Young and Old People

Children's service was held at the Court Street M. E. church Sunday morning. The platform and speaker's desk were prettily decorated with a profusion of flowers. The first anthem, "This is the Day Which the Lord Hath Made," was beautifully sung by the quartette.

After the lesson of the morning the candidates for baptism and those who wished to enter the church came forward and the rites of baptism were administered.

"Nearer My God to Thee" was then sung in a most impressive manner. Mr. Tippet talked in a very interesting and helpful way to a large number of the younger members of the congregation that were present.

He showed how girls and boys can lead a truly christian life by thinking of and doing the little things in life. Things that happen every day to girls and boys in school, at play and at home. He showed how being always obedient and obiding to one's father and mother helped toward being a christian.

To illustrate this Mr. Tippet told the story of how the teacher in a Sunday school class was once asking the little girls and boys to tell what they each did to help them lead a christian life. The first said that she "studied hard," and the teacher said that was a good way. The second said that she "read the Bible," and he was told that he was right in doing it; then a little girl said she "prayed very often," and that, too, she was told, was "helpful." The last little girl said, "I scrubs," but the teacher told her that she was doing just as much, if not more than the others, to help her to follow Christ.

The preacher also told a story of how once a bootblack was sitting his shoes, and how careful the little fellow was to polish them well. He asked the boy what he did toward trying to be a good boy, and the bootblack said that he always tried to shine shoes "the best that he know how," so that his work was done well, and so in this way the boy was trying to come nearer to a better life.

Then the pastor related how a young boy, who was soon to leave the home of his childhood, to face the temptations and dangers in life, dreamed the night before he went away, that he saw a wonderful cross and as he gazed at it in wonder, he read the word "truth" written upon the cross. Mr. Tippet told how the boy was thus impressed that the most important thing in christianity is truth. He spoke of how often boys and girls were tempted to evade telling the truth about trifles and of how dangerous it was to tell lies, the habit of doing so often leading to worse things. Then in the dream the boy saw the word "sincerity" written on the cross. Sincerity is truth in heart," said Mr. Tippet. Next the word "integrity" came before the eyes of the dreaming youth. "Integrity is truth in will and is equally important. The boy that has no strength of will cannot accomplish anything in life." And to illustrate the speaker told of a little boy, who he once saw, trying to open a gate. The boy was carrying a pall and could not unfasten the latch, but he did not give up; because he had strength of will; he set the pall on the ground and he tried with both hands to move the latch, and he kept on trying until he at last succeeded and the gate opened. The boy's determined will helped him accomplish the task he had to do.

Reverence
Then the word "reverence" appeared on the cross, and the pastor pointed out how reverence was needed in christianity, how that in these days boys were apt to be careless in this, and how we should all respect old people; that they should never be joked about or scoffed at. Mr. Tippet said that the custom for boys to take off their hats when speaking to older people seemed to be neglected more in later years and that this was to be regretted. Then in his dream the boy saw the word "humility." No one can be a true christian without being humble. The last word that appeared upon the cross was "charity," which is love, and trust in men. Mr. Tippet gave several illustrations of charity. He told about being in a terrific storm at sea at one time and a ship in distress was seen near his vessel and of how every man volunteered to go to the rescue of the sailors that were in danger, that the men risked their own lives to go to the sinking boat. They did this through charity—love of their fellowmen.

Spelled Christ
To further impress upon the young hearers of the importance of these six words, their pastor showed how, when put into a word beginning with the last they spell the word "C-h-r-i-s-t."

That if the boys and girls try to live up to these words: truth, sincerity, integrity, reverence, humility, and charity, they are following Christ and leading better christian lives.

PLUCKY WOMAN SHOOT A BURGLAR

Has an Encounter with a Disagreeable Caller.

Another burglar blithered—and by a woman, too, says the Los Angeles Times on May 21.

While in a playful humor yesterday morning, Mrs. Franklin D. Hogoboom who lives in a pretty house at No. 3425 South Flower street, ran into an angry burglar upstairs, was threatened with a knife, and sent the intruder running for his life like a whipped cur, before a six-shooter that she secured with remarkable presence of mind.

Mrs. Hogoboom, who is a petite Southern woman of 25 years, was shelling peas in the kitchen an hour before luncheon time. She heard the front door open and thought her husband had come home. She called but received no answer. She thought he was playing a joke on her; that he was going to hide and then jump around a corner and try to scare her. She summoned her nerve against the shock.

As she went upstairs with a bubbling laugh in her throat, she saw above her on the landing a young man without a coat, dressed in dark blue flannel shirt, dark trousers and cowboy hat.

She thought he was a man to fix the gas meter and went up to talk to him on that subject. She asked him what he wanted. He started towards her with an ugly expression on his face and did not answer. When he came close to her he said: "I want all the money you have in the house and I want it quick! Stand still," he commanded, "or I'll cut your throat."

Mrs. Hogoboom's recollection is that she turned pale when she saw the knife clenched in the desperado's hand and the murderous glare of his eyeballs. "Why, we haven't any money in the house," she told him.

"Yes you have," he persisted, "and if you don't get it quick I'll kill you." Mrs. Hogoboom meditated a minute, and then she had an inspiration. Her face lighted up pleasantly and she said sweetly: "Oh, do mean the money we got last night?"

"Yes, yes, that's it, and hurry up and get it," replied the robber.

"Then you remain just where you are standing and do not move," commanded Mrs. Hogoboom. "I don't want to be bothered while I am getting it."

The burglar said he would be good, and so Mrs. Hogoboom entered her room, which is very near by, and went with a great deal of positiveness to the bureau. The desperate intruder moved up to the threshold of the door to watch her.

Mrs. Hogoboom rummaged in a drawer of the bureau and her hand stole to a six-shooter. Turning suddenly she covered the burglar. He made a quick start towards her, with his knife drawn back. At the same instant Mrs. Hogoboom fired point blank and the burglar turned and ran down the stairs. Mrs. Hogoboom gathered up her skirts and also ran. When she reached the top of the stairs the frightened burglar was at the bottom. She shot at him again. The object of her aim turned a corner and ran out of the house through the back door.

The mark of the first bullet was found in the woodwork upstairs; but there was no sign of the second, except that piece of broken button was picked up on the lower floor. It had been worn on the man's shirt and the lead mark of a bullet was very plain on the broken edge. It is believed from these circumstances that the leaden missile found lodgement in the fellow's body.

After it was all over, Mrs. Hogoboom sat down and cried, not for more burglars to conquer. She described the burglar as about 30 years old, of medium height and with a noticeably red face.

The Last Dash at Vicksburg

A Fortieth Anniversary War Story
June 25, 1863

[Copyright, 1903, by G. L. Kilmer.]
JUNE 25, 1863, was the last day of desperate fighting in front of Vicksburg. That day the Federals exploded a mine under Fort Hill, a Confederate work on the Jackson road in front of General John A. Logan's division. The enterprise proved a success as far as engineering skill and human daring could make it so; but, like the famous mine at Petersburg in 1864, it failed to give the attacking party the key to the enemy's line, as was hoped for.

Most soldiers if given choice would prefer charging into the breach opened by an explosion to the tedious labor of placing a mine. The construction of the Fort Hill mine involved an advance of over 1,000 feet in the enemy's line, some of the distance being exposed to cannon fire and the bullets of vigilant sharpshooters. The advance was made step by step. Working at night, the sappers opened a trench for a distance deep enough to shield themselves by daylight. During the day they widened and deepened the trench and at night passed on another stretch.

After proceeding 400 feet the sappers excavated a large square and with the earth removed constructed cover for two naval guns, which helped to cover them in working beyond that point. These guns finally silenced the Confederate cannon at Fort Hill, but not so much as a hand could be shown above the Federal parapet without being punctured. During the daytime the men working to push forward the trench had some protection from huge rollers made of wicker and filled with bullet proof material. These rollers were like movable parapets, ever drawing nearer and nearer to the goal. When the head of the trench had been carried to within twenty-five yards of the fort a Confederate soldier invented a clever device for destroying the roller. Taking a piece of portfire, a slow match used for firing cannon, he betray and artillery poured upon them day and night. A feeble attempt to impede the miners was made by throwing hand grenades and shells over the parapet into the trench and mouth of the shaft. In order to save the lives of the Louisianians stationed in the doomed work all but a mere handful were drawn back to a second line of works built in rear of the fort.

The hour for the explosion had been fixed at 3 o'clock p. m. Grant marshaled long columns of infantry behind the works nearest the scene, ready for advance the moment the breach was sprung. The general, with his subordinate commanders, stood together at the naval guns, the highest position between the lines. At the appointed hour the din of 150 Federal cannon, accompanied by the rattle of 50,000 muskets, ceased on the instant. Only a few of the tens of thousands watching and waiting knew what was to come.

Suddenly the earth trembled, and the crown of the fort, with the outwork adjoining, seemed gently lifted from the foundation. Great fissures appeared in the rising mass, which gradually settled back, with the exception of the very center, where a column of fine earth, mingled with smoke and fire and solid objects, great and small, rose high in the air. As suddenly as they had ceased firing the cannon and muskets opened with renewed fury. Intense excitement followed the explosion, Grant's waiting columns being no less surprised than their foe.

But there were a hundred bluecoats close to the crater who were not surprised. They comprised volunteers from the Twenty-third Indiana and Forty-fifth Illinois, who, trained in their part, dashed into the smoking crater. Not a hand was raised to prevent the stormers from entering the breach, but the instant they scaled the debris which barricaded their advance beyond toward the heart of the citadel they met a storm of bullets and shells from the Confederates in the rear of the fort. The moment a hand or head was exposed above the crest it was riddled with balls. Finally two lines were formed on the slope of the debris, and while the rear line loaded muskets the men in front fired at random over the crest.

But the Confederates soon recovered from their surprise and were masters of the situation. They climbed the other side of the slope and tossed lighted shells and hand grenades into the ranks of the stormers. That was an hour for the fiercest human passions. To the assailants the prize was within their grasp, and they reached for it at any cost. The Confederates, stung by the discovery that they had been outwitted, were equally savage in their determination to destroy their foe.

The muskets of the Federals firing over the crest became too hot to hold, and they were exchanged for fresh ones. Shells and hand grenades were brought up to give the enemy as good as he sent. A volunteer from the First United States regulars—William Lazarus—tossed twenty of these missiles over the crest and was himself killed by one thrown from the other side.

Desperate as was the situation for the Federals fighting from the debris, they succeeded at last in checking the enemy's fire. Elevating the heels of their muskets, they fired bullets down the other slope upon the Confederates, and these, with the hand grenades and shells tossed over, proved too much for the Louisianians. Meanwhile the Federal engineers hauled some heavy timber out of the debris and built a casemate at the base of the slope, which was proof against the enemy's fire. At the same time a parapet was thrown up back of the casemate where the Federals who had dashed into the crater found shelter from the grenades and shells.

But the valor of the stormers was wasted. The crater was too narrow for more than a few men, and these few could not hold it against the big odds. During the night the troops were withdrawn, and the miners set to work to lay new galleries of powder under the parts of the fort that still defied them. A second explosion took place July 1 which opened a large breach, but there was no attempt to charge into the crater. In the first explosion only a few Confederates were lost, and these were miners at work underneath the fort. One of the miners who came out alive was a negro. He said he felt as though he had been lifted about three miles. He landed unhurt in the Federal lines and served General Logan to the end of the siege.

On the day of the Fort Hill affair the Confederates exploded two of their countermines, engulfing the rollers of the Federals at work over the mine and filling in their trenches. A day or two later the Confederates rolled a barrel of powder containing a slow fuse down upon a timber screen used by the besiegers to cover the work of digging. The charge of 125 pounds exploded on the mark and sent the timbers and other material high in the air. A new screen was built in the night, and the miners toiled on, finishing their work and opening a crater July 1 larger than the one of June 25. The work of mining and all other operations of the siege came to a sudden end July 3, when the Confederate commander notified Grant of his desire to surrender Vicksburg.

THE DASH INTO THE SMOKING CRATER.

filled the hollow tube with cotton saturated with turpentine. The missile when ready was about the size of a rifle cartridge with its shell. This was fired from a smoothbore musket into the roller. Several times the rollers took fire, and the flames were extinguished. One night the principal roller nearest Fort Hill was entirely destroyed. This stopped work in that trench, and the besiegers began another farther back, soaking the roller with water.

Finding it impossible to check the steady and ceaseless advance of the foe above ground, the Louisianians who occupied Fort Hill began to countermine with the hope of blowing up the Federal trench diggers. This work was slower than the trench digging of the Federals, for the counterminers had to sink a vertical shaft to a great depth and then tunnel forward underneath the enemy. This expedient ultimately saved the fort from destruction, but did not prevent the explosion of June 25.

The next step of the Federals after reaching the outer ditch of Fort Hill with their trench was to burrow down under the parapet and lay the powder mine. The Confederate counterminers were already at work under the fort, but the opposing gangs of laborers did not detect the presence of each other. The deep mining of the Federals was done by experts, and at the end of three days they had eighty feet of gallery completed under the parapet and filled with 2,200 pounds of powder.

Although fully apprised of the danger, the Confederates were unable to stop the enemy's work. Their big guns bearing on the ground in front had been silenced, and they could not sally out to attack the Federals without coming under the awful fire of mus-

THROUGH PEKIN CITY

VALUE OF VISIT TO METROPOLIS OF CHINA.

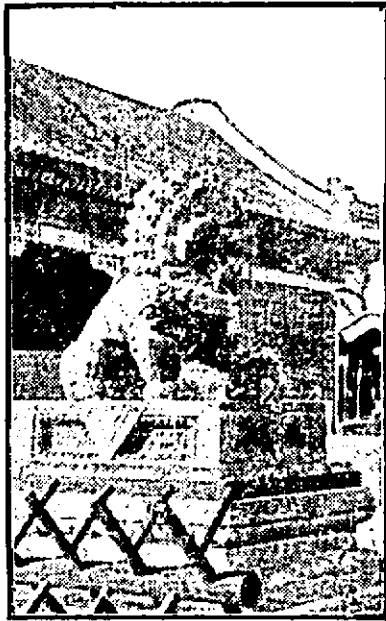

Celestial Capital Has Now an Interest World-wide—Wonderful Beauty of the Temple of Heaven—Ride Through the Streets a Novelty.

(Special Correspondence.)

The globe trotter, worn with varied sights in many lands, who says that Pekin is not worth the time and trouble, since the Imperial City is shut off, forgets that during only one short year of foreign occupation was the Imperial City ever open to the great unwashed; he forgets the natural oddity of the Celestial capital, and the wondrous march of modern story which has given that capital a vital and a world-wide interest in the last three years.

One reads the motto of the people, isolation and seclusion, in the great rampart that towers around Pekin, running many miles and reaching high its solid walls, which forbid and defy the foreign hordes. But modern progress has pushed through the city stronghold, and the insistent tourist forces his way under the impregnable North Gate, across which no rikman may urge his claims. At the gate the battle rages. Behind he heard how one must bully and browbeat celestial John on his own domains, and she had her own methods of oily smoothness to prove. But she did not have a change to try them. The mob fell mightily upon her. Cutthroats they looked, and tatterdemalions they were, swarming like a pack of hungry wolves upon their prey, beholding their risk into her helpless being. She sprawled among a dozen rikks, but she pulled herself into one, dirty, de-prayed, like all the rest, and with a flying pistol fore and aft, she was belted to the quaint Hotel du Nord.

Lit in that hostelry repaid the long and lksome journey. It was a Chinese compound, walled in and walled up. The center of life was the sanded bar, through which passed high and low en route to their dens. The dining hall was the center of a dense stockade, around which was a network of crossroads and alleys, where the passer rubbed shoulders with the walls, and never slid twice the same way to his den. Little detached houses of one or two rooms, filled up the court, and every boarder lived alone in his separate villa. A tintinnabulator swung outside the window, and responded to a rusty wire from within. Silent, unobtrusive, John never missed the tinkle and when he fired up the air tight room, the occupant caught a fiery hint of what it would mean to die in his sins. The bed was built for one's forefathers, but it was not conducive to sleep. It seemed a slice from the Chinese wall, and however one lay, it took a down grade, and one slid with the pillow to the footboard.

In the great Lamassery live over one thousand priests, the Tibetan Buddhists, who founded here their retreat, eleven hundred years before Christ. They are dirty and unkempt, beggarly and importunate. They beseege the victim with specious relics, and Bellinda felt an uncanny thrill as they chased her about the ramifying courtyards of their temples and pagodas, claiming cash for entry and for exit. Scores of them knelt in yellow robes and pentagonal tiaras, wildly beating their drums, and walling an inhuman hant to their pagan gods. It was good to lose the din of their prayers on the ear and to breathe free air outside of the walled temples.

Filth and poverty swarm in the city life, and one is little prepared for the beauty, serene and chaste, which is revealed in the Temple of Heaven. Through the thick of the dirty town under the heavy wall, beyond the market reeking with vile odors, bumping the ridges of deep ruts, the riksha files to the great inclosure of a thousand acres, where one treads the quiet fields, fragrant with herbs, to the colossal structure where the gods paraded from the near-go-down, for the annual worship of the emperor. It is a silent and deserted throneroom, except when crowded with idols on the opening day of each new year. Giant pillars in red and gilt support the domes, and color and carving are a marked feature. Here, alone with his thoughts and his gods, the ruler bows to the world and entreata a blessing on his vast domain. Does responsibility oppress him? Does love for his myriad millions oppress him? Does the burden of ignorance, poverty, degradation of the teeming multitudes prey upon the ruler and fill him with longing for the uplift of a needy race? Perhaps he feels that he is helpless in the thrall of old China, for we find no evident results of that annual prayer.

Across the acres of sombre forest, pungent with spice and balm, is the renowned Altar of Heaven, also sacred to annual worship. It is all open to the blue above. Dew and frost, rain and snow, fall on the glistening parapet. Sun and wind beat upon the ancient marble. Only a missing bird note breaks the glorified silence, and human speech seems desecration. The stillness is awesome. A peace which comes of God broods on the spot. Just outside is wicked, wrangling China. In the dirty market jolter the hucksters and chaffers. Near the entrance gate are squalor, noise and jargon.

A ride in Pekin is sure cure for torpid liver. Tattered beggars try to keep pace, and the springless gocart jolts out of an alley, at a sharp angle with the flying machine. The nation lives in the streets. Humps of humanity crouch on bales of rags. Junk vendors spread their goods in the dirt. Old leather rubs against rusty iron. Griddle cakes are a favorite dish, and chop sticks heap up the steaming rice. Chestnuts and peanuts roast by the way, bowls are filled with sauces and preserves, candied fruits cling to the yardstick, candlons are redolent with hot potatoes, steaks are frying, and sweets made from cereal tickle the taste. Every edible which is known to the Chinese palate is furnished in the chow of street stalls.

This vision of daily life, and humble life, in the open street is novel to the stranger. He dodges to escape the dangling signs, and exults if a space three feet long is cleared before him. The cobbler piles a bungling trade, and the barber plants his stool and shiny basins and hangs his patron's queues and ribbons on a pole, while he proceeds to shave or scalp the victim.

Nothing like law or order prevails in Pekin. Never does the traveler feel so utterly helpless and without protection as in this bewildering throng of packed and jostling natives, where no one understands, and no one is responsible. The embodiment of the law is barely recognizable from the rank and file, so stupid, so indifferent, so heedless he seems, and the soldier looks a dressed-up ruffian.

DR. LINDELEY SAYS

"Few physicians and fewer people realize the extent of this terrible disease or its dangerous or treacherous nature." It steals into the system like a thief and securely fastens itself upon the constitution before its victim is aware of its presence. Sometimes kidney disease may be likened to the approach of a panther on its prey, stealthily creeping along, until at last the total spring is made.

The secret of freedom from this dreadful disease is the liberal use of Dr. Lindley's Golden Kidney Cure. It must be taken the moment any change from the standard of health is noticed, no matter where the affection seems to be located, and continued until every particle of impurity is removed and the kidneys are in a healthy condition. Dr. Lindley's Golden Kidney Cure is sold by most drug stores for 25 cents a bottle.

ASSESSMENT OF MORTGAGES

In another column is published a letter from J. W. Cochran, supervisor of assessments in Wood county, addressed to the town assessors in that county. Mr. Cochran is an attorney of ripe experience, and his interpretation of the new mortgage law, will be read with interest.

It is well to remember that this law is not in accord with the recommendations of either the tax commission or the senate. It is an administration measure pure and simple and when the farmer pays the tax upon his own, and the mortgagee equity on his land, he may be inclined to do a little quiet swearing at fate.

A mortgage has usually been treated as personal property belonging to the man who owned it. In the case of life insurance companies the mortgage asset represents about all that the companies own, outside of the cash on hand. This is also true of trust companies and all other classes of corporations who deal largely in real estate securities.

It is a difficult class of property to reach by any individual state because it is scattered all over the country, but Wisconsin has nothing to do with property of New York, and if the later state has a million dollars, more or less invested in badger state mortgages, there is no reason why Wisconsin should be concerned about the New Yorker evading his tax. In plain English, it is none of the state's business, whether the eastern mortgagee pays a tax or not.

On the other hand, a mortgage adds nothing to the value of property. It is an acknowledgment of debt secured by real estate, and any man who has a plaster of this kind on his property simply owns an equity in the property. He is associated with a silent partner, but there is no reason why he should pay his partner's debts.

The state is suffering from too much reform. Under the old regime property was supposed to be assessed at half its value. This was equitable, because it relieved the holder of encumbered property from unjust taxation, but there is no justice in the new law passed two years ago, which provides for assessing all property at full valuation. There are numerous instances in Rock county where mortgaged property has been assessed for 25 per cent more than it would bring in the market. There will be a less number of reformers, after the assessors make their annual tour.

THE HOTEL STRIKE

The Chicago hotel strike will not contribute to the popularity of organized labor. While a hotel or restaurant is not conducted as a philanthropic enterprise, it nevertheless belongs to the public. The closing of these hostilities without warning to gratify the whim of a labor union, is bound to react, because it is a direct insult to the public.

The class of labor employed does not possess a large amount of skill and most of the places can be readily filled from outside the city. There are plenty of girls all over the country who will be ready to take the place of strikers, and they will be protected.

The result of the hotel strike will be, several thousand idle employees looking for work within the next ten days. The public have no sympathy with that sort of a strike.

Chicago university professors, not satisfied with exploiting theories in the school room, have entered the domain of the Sunday school, as critics. They would establish the same discipline and require the same pedagogic instruction that is found in the public schools. These wise gentlemen overlook the fact that the Sunday school is supported by voluntary attendance and self-sacrificing work. It is safe to say that they would be lost before the average Sunday school class.

The Berlin Machine works of Beloit are closed for an indefinite period, and 700 men are voluntarily idle. Some of them are already suffering. The Fairbanks-Morse people are ready to shut down on the slightest provocation. Should this occur 1,400 more men will be out of work. Such is life in a town controlled by organized labor. Janesville can afford to be content.

There is such a thing as carrying a joke too far. F. P. Woolston started from Denver on his wedding trip the other day, and his friends nailed old shoes and other relics all over the car, inside and out. The pullman was so badly damaged that it had to be taken out of service, and the company has made a demand for $200. It's all right to have a good time, but there's a limit.

W. J. Bryan will take a hand in the construction of the next democratic platform. This means a reshuffle of the Kansas City manifesto, and will not afford much consolation to the conservative element of the party.

Justice Magruder, of the Illinois supreme court, appears to be trotting in a class by himself. He is said to be on the off side of all questions, and his obstinacy may result in his forced resignation.

The sale of oleo has decreased one-third, since the new law went into effect. The creamery men, 3,000,000, 000 strong, are doubtless happy at the expense of the balance of the population.

If the Janesville Street Railway company want to improve their service, the council can hardly afford to act as an obstructionist.

PRESS COMMENT

Manitowoc Pilot: The fire departments have the right of way of the streets in Wisconsin. This is the gist of a decision handed down by the supreme court which holds that the driver is not expected to exercise the usual caution, the speed being the important consideration.

Marquette Star: The automobile spinning along the highways excites our envy. But there's a "behind the scenes." Away out on the Menominee state road last night six men labored for hours with a broken-down machine while the stars laughed and the complacent moon displayed just a ghost of a smile.

Neenah Times: It appears as though the office of game warden is now a bigger clench than that of oil inspector though that has been thought to be A1. Charles Reinhardt, an oil inspector at Racine, resigned in order to accept a game wardenship. And still there appears no good reason why Reinhardt could not hold both offices.

La Crosse Republican and Leader: There is no better evidence that the city of La Crosse is growing both in size and prosperity than in the fact that there is hardly a vacant store building for rent in the downtown district, or in fact in any section of the city. Not only in store buildings is there a great scarcity, but real estate men report there are very few houses for rent.

Jefferson County Union: It would not be so wonderful after all if the flood devastated lands in Iowa brought forth fair crops this year. The tendency seems to be towards drought to the east of us and we may have a long season. Wisconsin, except for cold winds delaying corn, has been peculiarly fortunate. An abundance of rain has fallen and so quietly that no damage has been done.

Milwaukee Wisconsin: At the Ohio republican state convention, Senator Hanna, who is the great mogul of the hour, insisted there should be no material changes in the tariff at the next session of congress, and this we believe to be the sentiment of the national republican party of the United States. The country is doing well under our present fiscal policy, and, therefore, let well enough alone.

Waupaca Post: All the newspapers which have commented upon the new mortgage taxation law unite in two conclusions, viz.: that the mortgagor, the man who borrows the money, will not have his taxes reduced, but will have to pay the tax on the mortgage, either as a tax or as increased interest, and that the law will exempt all mortgages from taxation. It will, therefore, benefit the man who loans the money, and not the man who borrows it.

Irrigation Works.

The government is to begin the construction of irrigation works in five localities. The Sweetwater dam, Wyoming; Milk River, Montana; the Gunnison tunnel, Colorado; Truckee, Nevada, and Salt River, Arizona. The cost of the five plants is estimated as $7,000,000, and they are expected to furnish water for 600,000 acres.

Lady Lennox Set Fashion.

Lady Algernon Gordon Lennox and her wavy blonde hair were a great blessing to New York hair dressers. Every blonde who saw the Englishwoman's mass of wavy locks became possessed of a mad desire for similar headdress. As a result they are paying $2 and $3 for each treatment, only experts being able to do the work.

INFORMATION TO ASSESSORS.

Grand Rapids, Wis., June 10th, 1903.

To the several assessors of Wood county: Gentlemen:— In the matter of Chapter 373 concerning the assessment of mortgages there are so many questions asked, and so much difference of opinion existing, concerning the application of the law, that I have concluded it advisable to put my views as fully as I can, without rendering myself liable for contempt, in the form of a letter and send a copy to each assessor, so that the interpretation of the law may be uniform thru out our county.

Section 2 of the act provides in substance that all loans secured by mortgage upon real estate shall for the purposes of assessment and taxation be deemed an interest in the mortgaged premises, and shall be assessed as such and not otherwise.

The effect of this is to change the character of such loans and credits from personal property to real property and no longer assessable where the creditor resides, but assessable where the mortgaged premises are situated, and assessable only as a part of the mortgaged premises.

Section 3 provides that at the option of the owner of the land, both the mortgage interest and the owner's interest may be assessed together or the same as if there were no mortgage upon the lands at all. I wish to say right here, before saying anything further about the law, that this is the most advisable course to pursue in every instance, and the assessor should so inform the owner of the land if necessary in order to impress that fact upon him.

My principal reason for so advising is the fact that in almost every, if not in every mortgage, there is a printed contract that the owner of the land will pay all taxes of whatever nature, general or special, which may be assessed against the land during the life of the mortgage.

By referring back to Section 2 of the act it will be readily seen that the law has made debts or loans as well as the mortgage securing the same an interest in, and a part of the real estate and taxable only as such, and all such taxes the borrower has agreed that he will pay.

It is true that there are other sections of the law which provides that in case the two interests are separately assessed against the lands, and the owner of the lands pays the taxes, that in the settlement between himself and the party from whom he borrowed the money, he may charge up against the mortgage and take credit to himself for the amount of the taxes and costs accruing thereon, which were assessed against the mortgaged interest.

The constitution provides that the legislature shall pass no laws impairing the obligation of contracts.

The provisions of this new law permitting the borrower to charge back such taxes so paid by him would be in violation of the contract previously entered into between the borrower and the lender.

There are many other serious difficulties in the way of administering the law.

To illustrate: There is no practical way to ascertain the amount remaining unpaid upon any mortgage, and there may be a serious dispute between the parties in respect to that.

The assessor cannot act judicially to settle such disputes, and it would therefore be impossible for him to ascertain the separate value of the two interests.

Again, there might be a mortgage for the same indebtedness covering a large number of different parcels of real estate situated in several different counties remote from each other, and there is no provision for adjusting the amount of mortgage interest as between these several different and remote parcels of land.

There are many other serious difficulties, but taken altogether it seems to me that this new law practically exempts real estate securities from taxation, because if taxes under this law the owner of the lands must still pay the taxes, and such securities cannot be assessed to the holder as personal property.

It not only does this, but it fails to exempt chattle mortgage securities, and fails to exempt debts which are only secured by promissory notes, or not secured at all, which seems to me to be an unjust discrimination. For these reasons I advise that mortgaged real estate be assessed just the same as if not mortgaged at all, and that debts secured by mortgage on real estate be entirely omitted from the assessment rolls.

Respectfully yours,
J. W. COCHRAN,
Supervisor of Assessments.

TOBACCO TALK OF INTEREST

TRANSPLANTING HAS BEGUN UNDER FAVORABLE CONDITIONS.

THE LEAF MARKET IS QUIET

Weather Has Been Good for the Growing Crops Now Set Out.

Transplanting the new tobacco crop is busy in the Rock county to bacco growers at present. But little fault has been found with the weather conditions of the past week, cool weather continuing with a passing shower now and then, and the farmers will have their planting completed satisfactorily. In some fields ent worms have been troublesome. With few exceptions the plants are in readiness for the ground and the work is not being delayed. Favorable weather should see the greatest part of the crop transplanted in a fortnight or less.

An abundance of rain has placed the soil in fine shape for ploughing, saturating it deeply with moisture. These conditions are said to point to a good start for the new crop. The plant beds have made such good progress as to practically guarantee an abundance of plants. No damage has been done by the flooding of some of the low grounds during recent rains.

Trade is Slow. Throughout the state the leaf market appears to have entered upon its summer vacation. A small quantity of 1901 leaf and a little of 1902 are reported as sold.

In New York the market is tame, and it is not expected to pick up before the end of next month when the rush on new goods will commence. No record sales are made, although desirable stock is constantly on the move. There has been an absence of the force-sweated domestic wrappers and blinder leaf. Sumatra has loomed up somewhat, but only due to the constant call for that staple. In the Havana market conditions are somewhat similar.

In Eastern Centers. There is nothing done in the Baldwinville market says the Gazette. A few small shipments have been made from the local warehouses, and at the Heinke and Albright warehouses the handling of tobacco already purchased is still in progress. The plant beds are backward, the need of rain being in evidence in all the beds. The acreage of tobacco in Oswego county is said to be less than one-half of last year's.

Business in the Sumatra branch is fair in eastern New York says Leaf. The inscription buying so far this year has been rather heavy. Casually estimating it, about 20,000 bales have already been purchased for America. This is, at the very least, two-thirds of the usual annual consumption; and only seven inscriptions, including those at Rotterdam, have taken place. Considering also that the A. C. Co. have hardly entered the field as yet, it would seem that the American market bids fair to be stocked close to the limit before the fall inscriptions are here.

Connecticut Conditions. Sales in Connecticut are infrequent and prices paid by the speculators are very low, writes one correspondent. In one town in Connecticut we have noticed that some of the leaf was used as a fertilizer, and crops were sold at from 1 to 4c a pound. We are not posted as to the cause, but presume it was pole rot or something like it. Of late years we have parties who pick up all the waste of the assorting houses. Much of it is exported and used for some purpose. In one town in Connecticut the brothers Hartmann will raise more shade leaf than they did last year, when they had 25 acres. This year they will grow 42 acres under shade and 15 acres of seed leaf in the open. They will try two acres of seed leaf under shade, in hopes to improve it.

In Pennsylvania the dry spell has to some extent, been broken by rains in various sections of the country. These, however, were in most cases light, and while they did much good, they were not a fourth part of what was needed. Immediately around Lancaster there were three or four showers during the past four or five days but less than an inch of rain fell all told, which, considering the dry condition of the ground, was only a sprinkle. Some localities in different parts of the country had fine showers, of which the tobacco planters are very prompt to avail themselves, and a good deal of tobacco was set out. The machine planters were also at work, and one man, we learn, set out 17,000 plants without watering a single one.

Suspect Fraud. The efforts of the Treasury department to unearth frauds in the classification of tobacco have not, up to the present writing, resulted in any arrests, although it is intimated that evidence has been secured by the department sleuths assigned to the work to justify the belief that in some instances frauds of an extensive character can be proven and the hope that the perpetrators of these frauds can be convicted. Assistant Secretary Armstrong, who as the officer directly in charge of the customs service, is the prime mover in this matter, does not believe in prosecuting his search for violators of the law with a brass band, but it is not denied that the campaign is being carried on with great activity and with the hope of securing evidence enough to convict the offenders in any such offences can be found.

DROP ONE TO THE BASS CREEK TEAM

Janesville Loses Decisive Contest of Series of Three at Bleasdale's Park.

Bass Creek gave the Janesville nine its trimmings at Bleasdale's park yesterday, before a large, and toward the last part of the game, enthusiastic audience. Early in the contest both teams were sluggish and scores were frequent. After four or five innings of this kind of work the men settled down to play the game, and put up a pretty exhibition. Janesville has suffered from the frequent shake-ups and changes in players.

THE EVENTS OF THE DAY

Licensed to Marry: A marriage license was granted to Archie B. Clifton of Lancaster and S. Winnifred Goodnough of Evansville.

Go to Milton: The Forest City ball team, of Rockford passed through Janesville enroute to Milton where they will play the local team.

Sold His Horse: E. F. Phillips sold his roan horse last week to St. Paul parties for the good price of $1500. This is a fine animal, and a five-year-old, a high stepper and was often noticed on the streets of the city.

Stop Gambling: Notice has been given the conductors of the Northwestern road that the regulations concerning gambling on the trains must be more carefully enforced, especially in regard to younger boys playing cards for money at such times. The trouble is most noticeable on the suburban trains, where clerks returning from their day's work play for money and become boisterous and noisy, causing much disturbance to other passengers.

Change High School Course: General changes throughout the high school course have been announced by Supt. Buell for the coming year. Some senior studies will be taken Junior year and other variations will be made.

Is on Good Behavior: John Holleran, who was before Judge Field for drunkenness a week ago, and who was given a week to prove his assertion that he would brace up, had his time extended to July 13 today. Holleran is hard at work and he was not called to the court today.

LIBRARY WAS OPENED TO-DAY

BOOKS DRAWN THIS AFTERNOON IN NEW BUILDING.

FORMAL OPENING DEFERRED

Carnegie Library Not Complete But Public May Have Benefit of Books.

Dispensing with a formal opening for the present, the newly completed Carnegie library was this forenoon opened to the public. Henceforth the building will be open at the usual hours, from one-thirty in the afternoon until nine in the evening, during which hours books may be drawn. Strictly speaking, the library is not yet complete. The lighting system is yet incomplete and the financial statement for the construction of the building has not yet been drawn up in its entirety, so that the library board is not ready to announce the formal opening. They feel, however, that it is unjust to the public to keep the books of the library out of circulation any longer.

Formal Opening Later. When all bills connected with the library have been sent in, the electric lighting fixtures are in place, the screens are on the building, and the library is in every respect complete, the gift of Andrew Carnegie and the Eldridge memorial may be presented to the city with appropriate ceremonies. That is a matter which was not decided at the meeting of the library board Saturday night.

The library force at present consists of Mrs. Louise S. Best, librarian, and Miss Gertrude Skavlem and Miss Genevieve Wilson, assistants.

Miss Eloise Nowlan assumes charge of the children's library.

Open shelves are the rule throughout the library, the works of fiction being included as well as general works, as was the rule in the old quarters.

Under Owlsh Patronage. Perched at either end of the racks in the reading room are sapient owls, who will stare learnedly down upon the patrons of the library.

In the children's library there is a large ornithological collection. The low shelves in use in that room furnish excellent opportunities to display the mounted specimens.

Registration has progressed steadily, and the library now has a large number of card holders enrolled.

BIG DAY AT GOLF LINKS TOMORROW

Richardson Medal Qualifying Round and Mixed Foursome Contest Are Scheduled.

Qualifying round for Richardson medal. Mixed foursome putting contest. Supper at club house.

Informal dance in evening. That is the program for the Mississippi Golf club tomorrow. Most of the best players of the club are expected to be on hand for the Richardson play. Sixteen will qualify for the medal contest. At four o'clock the mixed foursome, approaching and putting contest will begin. Two prizes will be awarded in this contest.

Caterer Monilton is preparing a toothsome menu for the club supper, following which there will be an informal dance.

The tennis court at the links has been completed, and will be ready for use when a net is secured.

LAW STATED AS TO G. A. R. BADGE

No One But A Member of Good Standing Has the Right to Wear It.

At a regular meeting of the W. H. Sargent Post, No. 20, Dept. of Wis. G. A. R., a committee was appointed to see that the law prohibiting persons, not members of the Grand Army, from wearing the G. A. R. badge or button and providing a penalty therefor, is duly enforced.

Said law is as follows: Section 4423 a. R. S. Status of 1898. Any person who shall wilfully wear the insignia or rosette of the military order of the loyal legion or the U. S. or any imitation thereof or any badge of the Grand Army of the Republic, or use the same to obtain aid or assistance thereby within this state, unless he shall be entitled to use or wear the same under the constitution by-laws, rules and regulations of said loyal legion or under the rules and regulations of said army shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail not more than thirty days or by fine not exceeding twenty dollars or by both such fine and imprisonment.

SUNDAY SERVICE AT THE Y. M. C. A.

Several Speakers Gave Interesting Talks to the Young Men Present.

An enthusiastic men's meeting was held at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. There was instrumental music and the association quartet sang several selections. The subject discussed was "A More Abundant Life." The talks were of an informal nature but very interesting and helpful. Among the speakers were Mr. J. C. D. Child, A. Whikenson, Mr. Holden, Dr. Richards and Arthur Clark.

The association has been presented with an excellent map of the state of Wisconsin and of the United States. It was given by a representative of the Rand McNally company.

LOCAL TOBACCO USED FOR SNUFF

Heavy Fluid Extract is Employed in Germany for Manufacture of Snuff.

Within a few days a quantity of tobacco extract, made from Janesville tobacco, will be shipped to Hambourg, Germany, from the H. Kirk White laboratory. It is a very heavy extract of the leaf, and is now in process of manufacture. It is utilized in the manufacture of snuff and is also used for the making of sleep dips. The extract is shipped in barrels, the barrel containing the liquid being inclosed in a larger barrel, the intervening space being packed to insure safe transit.

TRACK MEET IS TAKING PLACE

THE BLIND STUDENTS SETTLING SCHOOL RECORDS TODAY.

IS FIRST OF COMMENCEMENT

Declamatory Contest Will Be Held This Evening with Eight Contestants Striving for Medal.

Students at the Wisconsin School for the Blind are this afternoon measuring their strength on the cinder path and in the field, establishing records which will stand as the records of the school. This track and field meet is the first event connected with the commencement exercises of the class of 1903. As originally planned it was to have occurred tomorrow afternoon, but in order not to interfere with the plans of students who desired to leave for their homes tonight and tomorrow morning the date was shifted.

Complete Interscholastic Events. At 3:30 o'clock this afternoon the meet began. The list of events is the same as that of the interscholastic meets of the state, with the addition of the tug-of-war and the football kick. The cinder driveway in front of the institution will be used as the running track, and the lawn near the building will be used for the jumps and weight events. The meet will be under the direction of E. J. Baker, one of the instructors.

Declamatory Contest Tonight. Eight speakers will compete tonight in a declamatory contest, to the winner of which a medal will be awarded. The participants are Chester Parish, Mabel Bickford, Irene Wadsworth, Thelma Lorentsen, Thomas Carlyle, Aloysius Tyczkowski, Sarah Von Wald, and Lillie Lohrie.

The two first speakers in this list were the winners of the first and second prizes in a previous contest held this year. Much attention has been given to this rhetorical work this year and some declamations are expected.

High Prices In Rebellion.

"When I heard a friend of mine complain of prices on the bill of fare of any high toned hotel restaurant I tell him he ought to live in the south during the closing days of the war and taken his meals at any first-class restaurant and then he would see in comparison with the prices of today, things to eat are almost given away," said T. J. Wilson of Virginia to a Washington Star man: "Why during the days of '64 you had to carry a basket full of money to buy enough meats and vegetables for a family dinner. And it was the same way if you took your best girl to supper after the theater."

In looking over some old documents the other day I came across a price list of articles served by the old Oriental restaurant at Richmond. The prices that prevailed then seem worse than robbery now to those not acquainted with the then existing cost of soup cost just $1.50. Think of that! And it wasn't green turtle soup. For an order of turkey or chicken you were taxed $3.50, while for roast beef you paid $3.00 an order. If you had an appetite for rockfish you could get a plate of it for $5. Fried oysters also commanded the same price. Pure coffee was $3 a cup, pure tea $2 and fresh milk $2. Bread and butter was worth $1.50 an order. The cheapest articles on the list was cabbage and potatoes, an order of either costing $1.

"Ham and eggs was a popular dish at $3.50. A dozen on the half-shell brought $5. But it was the drinkables that brought fancy prices. A cold bottle of champagne of Madeira cost $50, sherry was worth $35, port $25 and claret $20. Malt liquors were high in proportion. Porter and ale could not be had under $12 a bottle; half bottles were sold for $6. Whiskey and brandy were sold by the drink. French brandy was $3, while rye whiskey and apple brandy were dispensed over the bar at the table for $2 a drink. Havana cigars, good ones, were worth $1 apiece. And in those days we heard nothing of a beef or whiskey trust."

DAY-OLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY SUMMARIZED

Important Items of News at Home and Abroad Told in Short, Concise Paragraphs.

LABOR.

Chicago hotel keepers scored on the striking waiters and cooks by securing over 300 non-union employees from other cities. Attempts to cut off supplies have failed. The union is believed to have made a serious mistake in refusing arbitration with John Mitchell as the odd member of the board.

Attorney Darrow defied Judge Holcomb, who fined sixteen union pickets $10 each for violating an injunction, and said the order would have no effect.

SERVIA.

The powers of Europe unite in condemning hutcheries at Belgrade, but do not see any way to interfere in the affair. The crisis is too acute in the Balkans to permit punishment of assassins.

The chief interest in the Serbian capital now centers in the inaugural of Prince Peter Karageorgevitch as king. The militia is still in control of the city and palaces.

FOREIGN.

Bourke Cockran was given a dinner by Irish members of parliament and spoke on the Irish cause.

An American citizen has been killed by Turks at Odessa, Russia.

WASHINGTON.

Developments in the postal scandal make it certain that many more important arrests will be made soon. The request of Senator Platt that the inquiry in New York be dropped was refused by President Roosevelt.

The report of the civil service commission shows that postal laws were ignored and violated by direction of officials high in the service.

President Roosevelt holds the view that Colombia is under obligation to ratify the canal treaty.

Movable homes for Indians are being tried on the reservation in southern California.

NEW YORK.

Five persons were burned to death in a flat building at 347 East One Hundred and Fifteenth street. The blaze is believed to have been of incendiary origin.

The Fifth Avenue bank declared a quarterly dividend of 25 per cent and a special dividend of 100 per cent.

DOMESTIC.

A prominent Georgian in discussing the race problem says the negro must be subordinated and that the south will deal with him without aid from north. He suggests the negro's future will be like that of the Indian.

Members of the Illinois republican committee accuse Chairman Rorer of usurping authority.

Justice Magruder of the Illinois Supreme court held possession of a room in the Cook County building at Chicago for twelve years and refuses to vacate.

John A. Drake's Derby candidate, Savable, won Clark stakes at the Harlem race track, Chicago.

ACCUSE A WOMAN OF BIGAMY

Indiana Officials Hold Mrs. Fearch Pending an Inquiry.

La Porte, Ind., June 15.—Mrs. Louis Fearch is held in jail pending investigation of the charge of bigamy. She is alleged to have contracted two marriages after the death of her first husband, Martin Crevlin, who was 50 years old. Her second husband, it is said, was William Hyler, with whom she could not agree. Louis Fearch is the third husband.

Cable Ship Makes Good Progress.

Manila, June 15.—The cable ship Colombia, which is laying the Pacific cable from Guam eastward, is nearing Midway Island, and it is expected that the laying of the section from Midway Island to Honolulu will commence next week.

Bandits Raid Philippine Towns.

Manila, June 15.—Disorder continues in the Province of Cavite. The bandits, named Felizardo and Montalban, with some followers, recently raided a number of towns. The government is planning a campaign to suppress the troubles.

Car Robber Pleads Guilty.

Huntington, Ind., June 15.—Cyrus P. Gillen of Piqua, O., one of the Chicago and Erie express car looters arrested here, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to prison for from one to three years. He was also fined $500.

Kills Wife and Self.

Denison, Ia., June 15.—W. A. Porter attempted to shoot his son-in-law. His wife interfered and in the scuffle was shot in the head. Porter then shot himself twice and will die. Mrs. Porter is in a critical condition.

Tumbler Works Burn.

Greentown, Ind., June 15.—The National Tumbler works were destroyed by fire. The losses on building and material amount to $180,000. The plant was owned by the National Glass Company of Pittsburg.

Monument to Confederates.

The Daughters of the Confederacy have presented to the city of Baltimore, a fine bronze monument typifying southern valor and endurance during the civil war. The group is nine feet high and weighs 5,000 pounds. It is now being placed in position and will shortly be unveiled.

LIVE STOCK

CIRCUMVENTING THE CATTLE TICK.

Prof. W. H. Dalrymple of the Louisiana station, in an address to Nebraska stockmen, said:

We in the South consider, so far as our cattle interests are concerned, and we might also say, those of the Northern breeder who aims at creating a market in the South, that perhaps the most valuable discovery ever made is, but when a few drops of blood are drawn from one of our native tick-infested animals, and injected underneath the skin of a susceptible one, it will produce in the latter a mild attack of Texas fever, from which, in the great majority of cases, the animal so treated will recover, and afterwards be able to withstand subsequent attacks of the disease, brought about by transmission of the specific organism through the medium of the common cattle tick, or in other words become immune. I do not know just how it is up here in Nebraska, but I found a few people, the exact number I have never attempted to estimate, who have a sort of ingrained aversion for anything to which the term "scientific" is applied, but at the same time, seem absolutely oblivious to the fact, that scientific investigation, about which they appear to possess such crude notions, and which they are inclined to sneer at, if there was some sleight-of-hand juggling connected with it, is nothing more nor less than persistent, painstaking searching after the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. In this very work of immunization, we have an excellent illustration: Texas fever, the hitherto dreaded bane and bughar of every Southern stockman, below the fever line, whose desire it was to purchase, in northern latitudes, pure bred cattle for the purpose of upbuilding and improving his degenerated herds, either of beef or dairy animals, has almost as many names as there are breeds of cattle, and just as many theories as to its cause and methods of treatment. And it is probable that such a chaotic state of affairs would still have existed had it not been for the indefatigable, dogged, and persistent efforts of the scientist in his search after truth, which has resulted in the accuracy of the knowledge now possessed relative to the true cause and nature of the disease, and the more intelligent and effective measures by which to combat its ravages.

As has been previously hinted, the actual, or exciting, cause of Texas fever is a germ—a malarial type of germ—belonging to the protozoa, the lowest form of animal life. Technically, this organism is known as "proto-plasma bigeminum," and it can be found within the red blood cells of any of our native southern cattle that have been exposed to tick infestation.

It may be of interest to state at this point that we have Southern natives, however, that are non-immunes. This may appear rather strange to some of you, as it did to many, including some of our leading stock-journalists, when a South Carolina herd of cattle became infected with Texas fever after exhibition at the Charleston Exposition in 1901. The explanation of such an occurrence, however, is quite simple, when we realize that the tick is, so far as we know, the only intermediary host of the disease-germ, and that there are many places in the southern states, as, for example, the alluvial lands of my own state, or lands subject to periodic inundation, on which ticks are rarely to be found. Consequently animals born and raised on such tick-free places are non-immune, because they have not had the opportunity to become inoculated by the natural method, viz., through the intermediation of the tick. But, if animals so raised are afterwards placed upon ticky pastures, they will contract the fever just as surely as if they had been imported from North of the Federal Quarantine Line. In short, it is, with us, a question of ticks, or no ticks.

TREATMENT OF THE SOW.

Young sows should be liberally fed on flesh and bone-producing foods, such as ground oats and wheat bran. In summer they should have a run on clover, and in winter comfortable quarters, with access to the yard. It should never be forgotten that exercise is essential for breeding sows. Sows should not be mated before they are nine months old. At all times they should be kindly treated. A good brood sow is worth caring for, as she is more profitable than a brood mare. Her progeny mature more quickly, do not require such expensive stabling, are exposed to less risks, and a ready market is always obtainable for them. In winter a ration of grain roots and clover hay, with access to a yard for exercise, is an economical and suitable way of caring for brood sows. The farrowing pen should be roomy and warm, with just a sufficiency of litter. In very cold weather it is a good plan to heat a couple of bricks and put them in a basket, cover with chaff, and then put the young pigs on this until all are farrowed, when they may be placed near the teats. For the first twenty-four hours after farrowing give the sow nothing but perhaps a drink of warm water, as food or slops may kill her. The act of a sow in eating her young is often the fault of the owner in feeding heat-producing food prior to farrowing, and giving little, or no exercise.—Prof. W. J. Frazer.

Chicago's Centennial Celebration.

The Chicago & North-Western R'y announces that much interest is being evinced throughout the west in Chicago's celebration of the 100th anniversary of that city's settlement in 1837. The celebration will take place from September 26th to October 1st, next, with a program that includes a series of commemorative events that possess many special features of interest. A great naval display will be a part of the program, together with regattas and the spectacular arrival in canoes, by way of the lake, of 400 Indians, the descendants of tribes formerly occupying this site, who will establish a village around a reproduction of old Fort Dearborn, on the lake front.

Athletic contests, parades, great fireworks displays, patriotic meetings and religious services, a grand chorus, military maneuvers by government troops, and on the concluding day a reception to the president of the United States and other distinguished guests, all contribute to a most elaborate program.

Every energy is being employed to make the occasion typical of that spirit that has made Chicago one of the greatest cities in the world. Very Low Rates to Indianapolis, Ind. Via the North-Western Line. Excursion tickets will be sold June 13th and 14th, with final return limit by extension until July 25, inclusive, on account of Modern Woodmen meeting. Apply to agents Chicago & North-Western R'y.

Christian Endeavor Meeting.

A Christian Endeavor special train via the North-Western R'y, will leave Chicago Tuesday, July 7th at 10:30 p. m., carrying various delegations of Endeavorers and their friends to the International convention at Denver. Pullman standard and tourist sleeping cars, free reclining chair cars and standard day coaches, through without change. Only $25.00 round trip from Chicago. Correspondingly low rates from other points. For sleeping car reservations and illustrated itineraries, address W. B. Kniskern, P. T. M., Chicago, and for rates, tickets, etc., apply to agents Chicago & North-Western R'y.

SPECIAL EXCURSION RATES.

Splendid Trip to Boston and Return.

On the occasion of the 42nd Annual Meeting of the National Educational Association at Boston, July 6th to 10th, the Wisconsin Journal of Education special through train will leave Madison, Thursday, July 2nd, at 1:15 p. m., via the North-Western Line, passing through Lake Mills, Jefferson, etc., and Waukesha to Milwaukee, thence to Chicago along the North-Western's delightful lake shore route.

The route of the special train from Chicago will be via the Grand Trunk R'y, leaving Chicago the same evening and arriving at London, Ont., for breakfast. Niagara Falls will be reached at 10:30 a. m. and here the party will stop until 5:00 p. m., making a number of interesting trips to points in this vicinity. On the morning of Saturday, July 4th, the party will leave Kingston, Ont., on the steamer Toronto, for a delightful ride along the St. Lawrence river, past the Thousand Islands and through the Lachine Rapids, arriving at Montreal for supper and in time for a ride through the city before departing at 8:00 p. m.

The party will reach Boston Sunday morning at 8:00 o'clock, where it will be met by local committees who will act as escort to hotels or various points of interest.

This special train and the round trip rate in effect afford a splendid opportunity for a trip of unrivaled interest.

The party will be personally conducted and in charge of one who is familiar with the route and will see that the passengers' comfort is cared for in every detail. The arrangements for the special party include favorable rates at hotels, eating houses and for side trips. For further information call upon or address ticket agent of the North-Western Line.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Tonic and Nervine Cured After Thirty-one Years.

"I was a perfectly healthy young man up to February 1862. When my regiment was in Camp Randall I was taken sick with the measles and I did not enjoy good health up to the time I used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and Tonic I am completely restored to health. I have also used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills with good results and I think that the Dr. Miles Remedies are perfect."—Rev. Hiram Bender, Sparta, Wis.

"I want to say a few good words for Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. I have been troubled very much with insomnia since I made the change to the new paper and on account of this I have tried various remedies without relief. I was finally induced by a wholesale druggist, a personal friend of mine, to try Nervine. I can assure you it has done me a lot of good. I do not find it necessary to use it regularly now but occasionally when I find I am again taking it up as I always keep a supply on hand. It has never failed to give me the desired relief."—A. ## Growth of Gold Nuggets.

It has been found that gold nuggets under favorable conditions actually increase in size, says a writer in Popular Mechanics. Gold is known to have grown on mine timbers which have long been immersed in mine water. In the California State Mining Bureau museum there is a specimen of a piece of jointed cap and post taken from the Comstock, where it had been under water for years, in which gold has formed in the joints and pores of the wood.

Gold is constantly being formed in rocks and veins and placers. Just what it is that the baby gold formation feeds on to affect its growth is not known; if it were a new and wonderfully lucrative industry might be born and all other kinds of farming save the growing of gold might temporarily be abandoned. The formation and growth are due to mechanical and chemical action. As in the case of an animal or vegetable, gold has existed in some other state before assuming its present form. Waters which percolate through the earth's crust are said to contain substances from which gold is formed. Thus gold, like the animal and the vegetable, must have water in order to thrive. The gold in the water is deposited when it meet the proper precipitant. The precipitant may be an earth current of electricity or some vegetable growth of chemical in the rocks.

It has been claimed that the nuggets found in placers are the formations from the waters that percolate through the gravels, and are not through decomposed quartz as generally supposed. Those who contend the fact in the center of nuggets can be often found a small grain of iron sand. This was the nucleus around which the earth current of electricity created or deposited in electroplating. During long ages this influence was at work causing the gold to form around the little grain of iron ore and then grow to become a bright, shining nugget of gold much larger and purer than any ever found in the veins of ore.

Coming Attractions.

Did you ever hear the John W. Vogel's minstrel band as it filled the town with its merry, hurried music on Christmas day? Did you notice the men in the procession, wearing high hats, long light colored coats, buttoned with precision around figures which seemed animated with music, and wires, or something of the sort? Did you see the banners and the zany faces carrying them? How the horns sounded, and how the tunes echoed through the streets.

Many a grizzled man saw the parade pass and turn from the window with a wish that for just one Christmas day he could be like the boy who followed the minstrel band, admiring in his excited mind the wonderful heroes in the long light coats, which are only fantastic depictions from the mistle show of the past. Eugene Field got back to the boy again when he wrote:

"Bring the comb and play upon it. Marching here we come—Willie cocks his Highland bonnet. Johnny beats the drum."

It is, after all, only the boy who loves the minstrel band? Whoever reasons thus but tries to hide beneath that cynicism which deceives no one, not even the cynic himself, his own heart. Whoever passes on without noticing the high hats, the flaming banners, the dandy coats and other incongruous features of the minstrel parade, is only trying, with an effort which twitches his heart, to close the gates of memory's playground.

Hurrah for the minstrel band!—News Press, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

FLAVOR OF BUTTER.

It is safe to say that the principal defect in the quality of Canadian butter, as in the butter from any other country, is in regard to the matter of flavor, said J. A. Reddick in an address. The causes which give rise to this defect are many and not always easily located, but the buttermaker has a great advantage over the cheesemaker, inasmuch as he has it within his power to control the flavor of the butter to a very great extent by the use of good flavored fermentation "starters," and by proper attention to the ripening of the cream. His failure to do this is one reason why the butter is often inferior in flavor. Butter-makers must study this question of ripening cream and the use of "starters." The trouble is that very often the "starter" produces a bad flavor instead of a good one. When the farmer sows his seed he expects to reap what he sows. If he sows wheat he reaps a crop of wheat, but if the grain he uses is full of mustard-seed it need not point out what the result will be. It is not possible to get fine flavored butter where bad starters are used any more than it is to get a crop of wheat from the mustard seed. The difficulty is that many butter-makers apparently do not know the difference between what is a proper starter and what is not.

Increase of Meat Prices in Germany. United States Consul John E. Kohl reports that butchers' associations in Germany have, within the past two months, held many meetings to devise means of stopping the continual decrease in the supply of live stock available. This scarcity exists throughout the whole empire, naturally increasing the price of meat. In Berlin for the month of June, 1902, there was a deficit of 1,964 head of cattle (slaughtered), as compared with the same month in 1901. For the last half of August (from the 16th to the 30th) there was a general decrease of 22,566 head of slaughtered stock, as compared with the same period of 1901. These figures are taken from the Allgemeine Fleisch-erzeugung. The decrease of available stock in the Dresden market for the first seven months of this year, as compared with the same period of last year, was: Beef, 2,014 head; swine, 23,760 head; calves, 1,955 head; sheep, 1,236 head. In Posen, pork is selling for 1 mark (23.8 cents) per pound. In Coblenz, a general advance of 10 pfennings (2.4 cents) was made last month on all kinds of meats and sausages. It is safe to say that almost every city of more than 50,000 inhabitants has, since the 1st of January of this year, experienced an increase in the price of meats. From June, 1900, to June, 1902, the price of live hogs has risen 25.8 per cent. In laboring circles the use of meat, due to high prices, is diminishing, which accounts for the gain of $1,223,716 in the import of fresh and smoked fish and herring, as compared with 1900.

Hauling Milk Over Electric Lines. We notice that in some parts of the West the farmers are asking the electric lines to haul milk to market. It is evident that this is one of the purposes to be served by the electric lines in the future. And why should they not? They pass through the very best of the land, where the soil is richest and the population densest. Such is a good dairy region, for the farms will be found to be generally small and help quite easily obtainable. The only drawback is the necessity for the farmer to hitch up his horse to draw the milk to the electric line. This labor may be lessened by using a hand separator and shipping only the cream. It could then be sent forward every day, and no excuse would remain for its arriving at the factory in a sour condition. Up to the present time most of the electric lines running through the country have contented themselves with carrying passengers, but it would certainly be a great step in advance to provide facilities for the transportation of much of the products of the farm.

Temperature of cow prior to injection of the tuberculin, 6 a. m., 102.2; 11:30 a. m., 103; 6:15 p. m., 103.3. Injected 3 cubic centimeters of tuberculin under skin of neck at 9:30 p. m. same day preliminary temperatures were taken. Next morning temperatures were again taken with following results: 6 a. m., 106.8; 9 a. m., 107.5; 12 noon, 107.2; 3 p. m., 107.3; 6 p. m., 107.8.

This is a most interesting case. Cow reported to be "in first rate general health" with not the slightest suspicion of tuberculosis on the part of the owner was by the above tuberculin test proved to be very dangerously tuberculous. Her udder was doubtless the seat of the disease, but glands throughout the body were also no doubt involved in the disease. The cow that has stood next to this cow in stable for some time was also tested and showed by her reaction to the tuberculin that she is to be considered suspicious and a subsequent test in a few months may show plainly that she has contracted the disease without doubt. There is surely a valuable lesson to be learned from this case.—Farmers' Review.

MOB IS INTENT ON LYNCHING

SHERIFF AND POSSE TO RESCUE

Official and His Deputies Are Endeavoring to Effect the Arrest of the Slayer of Three Persons—Culprit Is Well Armed.

Pittsfield, Ill., June 15.—As the result of a double murder committed here Sunday, Fred Mink, 21 years old, is besieged in a deserted house on the edge of town, while a mob and a sheriff's posse are seeking to effect his capture. The members of the mob declare that they will lynch him, and the sheriff and his deputies are trying to make him prisoner and take him to jail.

Mink murdered Newton W. Harris, a farmer, living near town, and then shot and killed his stepmother. Rage over the refusal of Harris to allow him to pay court to his daughter is thought to have inspired the killing, but the death of Mrs. Mink cannot be explained.

Shoots Victim in Back. Mink, who is 21 years old, recently returned from the state of Washington. Before leaving home for the West he paid court to Beulah, the daughter of Mr. Harris, and his suit had been frowned on by the father. Since his return Mink has declared that he intended to even up scores.

About 7 o'clock Sunday morning Mr. Harris was in his pasture lot when Mink crept up behind him. He was armed with a rifle, and from the shelter of a fence he fired on the unsuspecting farmer, who fell. Mink then ran to the prostrate man and shot him four times in the back and side as he lay on the ground.

Fires at Woman. Alarmed by the firing, Mrs. Harris ran from the house, a short distance away, and started toward her husband. Mink drew a revolver as she approached, and fired one shot, missing her. Then he ran from the field and disappeared in the woods near by.

As she had not seen Mink for some time, Mrs. Harris did not at first recognize her husband's murderer. Then she recalled the threats made by the young man before he had left home, and at once accused him of the crime.

Kills Stepmother. A search was instituted for Mink, and a number of people started toward his home. They knocked on the door, but got no response. Forcing an entrance, they began a search through the house, and soon discovered the body of Mrs. Mink lying on the floor. She had been shot a number of times and was dead when found.

Neighbors remembered of having heard shots around the house and seeing young Mink running away, and the entire town was aroused in a hunt for the murderer. Nearly every member of the crowd was armed and many threats were made of lynching Mink when he was caught.

Hides in Deserted House.

At length Mink was found hiding in a deserted house on the edge of the town. As the mob approached he showed himself at a window and told his pursuers that he would kill the first man that approached the house. He showed his rifle and revolver and fired a shot at one man who tried to run around a corner of the house to get at him from behind.

Pittsfield is the county seat of Pike county and the sheriff was early on the scene. He insists that he will make every effort to prevent a lynching, but the mob is not disposed to allow their intended victim to escape an instant hanging.

MINERS ASK MERCY OF COURT

Remaining Nine of Atkinville Defendants Fined and Imprisoned.

Charleston, W. Va., June 15.—Four of the striking miners having been found guilty of resisting arrest at Atkinville Feb. 21, when Deputy Marshal Cunningham attempted to serve rules and attachments upon them for violating Judge Keller's blanket injunction, the remaining nine entered a plea of guilty and threw themselves upon the mercy of the court. Fines of $100 and jail sentences of five months were assessed against each of them.

Photographing on Apples.

Thornwell Haynes, United States consul at Rouen, France, in a report says: Apples upon the surface of which are perfectly reproduced the photographs of the emperor and empress of Russia and of the president of the French republic have been shown in France. Before photography was employed, images were produced by means of figures cut from paper and stuck on the surface. When the paper was removed, the image appeared light and the fruit dark or vice versa, according to the manner in which the paper was cut and applied. At present, however, photographs are reproduced with all their details. Strong negative electrotypes are employed having great resistance and reproduced on their films. The films are obtained by photographing the subject many times. The film is held in place by two rubber rings or is stuck by some matter that will not obstruct the rays of light, such as albumen or the white of an egg.

Seed Corn.

From Farmers' Review: Farmers are getting ready for spring work. The frost is nearly out of the ground. The bulk of our corn last fall was not fully ripe and the wise farmer will carefully test his seed early. A good way is to take one kernel from each doubtful ear and put them between two pieces of cloth in a dish of earth, kept wet when the temperature is not too low, and if good it will sprout in four or five days. Do not use too old seed. I had some three years ago that was fine, having been kept perfectly dry and looked bright and good, and not having seed enough used some to finish up planting with. It was three or four days longer in coming up and was sickly and poor all summer, and I had not more than half a crop.—G. W. Buffum, Steele County, Minn.

Set Strawberries Early.

People that are intending to set out new strawberry beds this spring should not neglect to send at once for their plants with instructions that they be forwarded as soon as the time approaches for putting them into the ground. Every year a great many people neglect till very late the ordering of their strawberry plants. We have seen plants arrive with not only the blossoms on them, but with small green strawberries among the foliage. The plant had already expended much energy in the development of root, which energy was lost when the plant was removed from its native bed.

Nursery trees are greatly benefited by transplanting them once or twice before the final planting out.

Declines to Be Governor.

Manila, June 15.—The government, which intends to appoint an army officer to be governor of Cavite province, offered the post to Captain Shanks of the Eighteenth Infantry, but the latter has declined the offer.

German Agriculturists.

Madison, Wis., June 15.—The forty-seven German agriculturists making a tour of the country were here inspecting the University of Wisconsin agricultural department.

OF UNTOLD VALUE

The Information Contained in This Gentleman's Statement Is Priceless.

The hale, the hearty, the strong can afford to toss this paper to one side impatiently when they read the following but any sufferer in Janesville who has suffered hours of torture caused by kidney complaint will stand in his own light if he does not follow the valuable advice offered here:

Mr. W. Samp of 412 Euclid avenue, proprietor of the largest rock quarry business in Beloit says: "I had trouble with my kidneys for many years. It consisted mainly of a lame and aching back and there were occasional when I had such severe attacks that I could not get out of the house for two or three weeks at a time. I was then practically helpless for it was painful to move. At other times it assumed a milder form being a dull aching across my kidneys, used medicines of different kinds but I never found anything that gave the satisfaction Doan's Kidney Pills gave. This remedy is worthy of a high recommendation and it is a pleasure for me to endorse it as doing all that is claimed for it."

Just such emphatic endorsements can be had right here in Janesville. Drop into the People's Drug Co.'s store and ask what their customers report.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

The Lion at the Barber's

Once upon a time the lion decided that he should go to the barber's, and so he posted off to the shop kept by the monkeys.

"I'm in a big hurry," said the lion as he climbed into the barber's chair. "Got through with me as quick as you can, for I want to catch a train." He threw himself back in the chair and closed his eyes, and before the monkeys had half recovered from their scare he had fallen fast asleep and was snoring.

HE HAD FALLEN FAST ASLEEP AND WAS SNOORING.

"What did he say he wanted—a hair cut or a shampoo?" asked the chief barber of his assistant.

"He didn't say," answered Jimmy. "Well, I guess you had better wake him up and ask him."

"Well, I guess I'll resign my job," replied Jimmy. "If I wake him up he'll eat me up."

"Then I'll shave him," said the chief. "Maybe that isn't what he wants, and he'll eat you up," said Jimmy.

"Then suppose I cut his hair?" "He may not want his hair cut, and he'll eat you up for that."

"Then I guess I'll cut his hair and shave him both."

"He'll eat us both up then." The chief scratched his head and the assistant scratched his head, but presently Jimmy says:

"Boss, I would like to get off today to go and see a sick friend."

"All right," answered the chief, as the happy idea flitted through his brain. "And I'll take a day off too."

So they took each other by the paw and tiptoed as easily as they could across the plain until they got out of gunshot of the lion, and then they ran. And unless he went to another barber shop Mr. Lion hasn't had his hair or hair cut from that day to this.—Chicago Tribune.
